PAPER OUTPUT CUT FORECAST IN FEW DAYS

Per Cent Reduction Seen in Simultaneous U. S. and Canada Orders.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, Oct. 10—Makers of paper, including the possibility of a cut in production next few days.

The order will be issued, however, the U. S. War Relocation Authority spokesman in an order calling for a 10 per cent cut in production of newsprint, but it had been held up.

The order, which could be issued by name, said the cut would not appear before the end of next week, and in other forms.

It is not known whether the order for the United States was to have been accompanied by a parallel order in Canada.

The order has adopted a curtailment of newsprint production at certain areas, but it is not expected to affect the entire industry has been running at about 65 per cent of capacity.

The curtailment order for the United States was expected to be a 10 per cent cut in the level of operations in the next weeks ending Oct. 31.

All paper makers except paper for the military and naval stores, which are essential for the war effort, are expected to be cut.

Supplies still large. Newspaper inventory is still large. Newspapers are on average supply on hand for two months. Magazine and book publishers would be affected by domestic curtailment, but as their stocks became depleted, but newspapers would be able to continue on what was on hand.

Since Canada depends upon the U. S. for newsprint for American papers, some paper men said they doubted Canadians would be able to go along with an order curtailment plan.

The curtailment plan, however, was not expected to be a 10 per cent cut in the level of operations in the next weeks ending Oct. 31.

By The Associated Press
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 10—Illinois law agencies were in operation today in one of the most widely flung manhunt in the state's history to effect the capture of seven life-term convicts who escaped from Stateville prison yesterday afternoon.

Two of the convicts, leaders in the spectacular break over the prison walls, were Roger (Terrible) Touhy, 44, and Hugh Basil (The Owl) Banghart, 41, once the nation's top ranking public enemies, who were serving 99 year terms for kidnapping.

Two guards and a civilian employee were wounded in the assault by the convicts, five of whom fled in a guard's automobile parked outside the prison.

Two Others Found Missing

Warden E. H. Stubblefield said that while officials were certain as to the manner in which five of the prisoners escaped, it was some time after the break before guards found two other convicts were missing. They were Edward Darlak, 31, serving 199 years for murdering a policeman, and St. Clair McInerney, 31, serving a life term as a habitual criminal.

The warden, absent at the time of the break, said his investigation disclosed Touhy and Banghart both imprisoned for the $70,000 kidnaping of John (Jack the Barber) Factor of Chicago in 1933, and other prisoners were talking to Jack Cito, convicted truck driver, outside the bakery.

Touhy hit Cito with a pair of scissors, knocked him down and drove the truck across the prison yard to the mechanical shop.

There, he cut the telephone wires and apparently by a signal Banghart, carrying a gun, came through a window. They forced Guard Samuel Johnson to give them two ladders and ordered him and another guard and William Dahler, shop foreman, to get in the truck with them.

Three In Truck

Already in the truck were three other convicts—James O'Connor, 35, who had escaped twice before from Stateville, and William Stewart, 43, and Matthew Nelson, 40, serving life sentences as habitual criminals.

They drove to the west wall, fired at Guard Herman Kross in the tower and wounded him. Then they beat Johnson, forced him to climb with them to the tower where they stole Kross' prison keys and his automobile.

Dahler, in the meantime, escaped from the truck. After seizing two rifles, part of the tower armament, Kross' pistol and extra ammunition, the five escaped down the outside steps and drove away in Kross' car.

PRISONERS SHACKLED BY BRITISH ORDER

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 10—The British are presumed to have carried out their order to shackle 1,376 German prisoners of war at noon today in counter-reprisal for the German order to shackle British prisoners at last Thursday in retaliation for the same number of British and Canadian prisoners captured in the Aug. 19 raid on Dunkirk.

There was no official word from the British or from the Germans who threatened yesterday a return to the additional shackling of three times as many British prisoners if the British carried out their order.

The reprisals and counter-reprisals started when the Germans, in response to British protests, allowed the British bound German prisoners in the Dieppe raid to be released.

There was no indication from the British or to the extent to which the German prisoners would be shackled; whether they would be handcuffed or chained together.

In a speech at High Wycombe, Sir Horace Wilson, British minister in Germany, said the British would give notice that unless the German soldiers are freed from the chain gang the allied forces will bomb Berlin without respite.

Let the BBC tell this to the German people," Granville said. "They will know the Nazis are responsible. It's the only way."

PRESIDENT TO BROADCAST

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—President Roosevelt's half-hour radio address Monday night at 10 p. m. will deal with domestic and foreign subjects.

SOME FOOD COSTS TO ADVANCE AGAIN

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Some of the nation's housewives may soon pay more at the grocery store under a new alternative pricing formula.

They may also get some items that have been off the grocery shelves lately because of a squeeze on food wholesalers and retailers who have found it difficult to do business under March ceiling prices.

The jump won't be much, Price Administrator Leon Henderson assured the housewives—"a cent or two for the most part for the affected foodstuffs."

These are hundreds of individual items in 11 broad groups announced last night: breakfast cereals, canned fish, cooking and salad oils, sugar, canned vegetables, coffee, rice, hydrogenated shortening, other shortening, dried fruits and land. On two of these items, land and dried fruits, the new price ceilings, effective Oct. 11, are compulsory and present maximums must be abandoned whether the ceilings result in higher or lower price tags.

Some unofficial estimates placed the increase in the nation's food cost at $70,000,000 annually.

Mt. Gilead Boy Scouts Boost Scrap Campaign

By The Associated Press
MT. GILEAD, O., Oct. 10—Members of the Mt. Gilead Boy Scout troop collected 55,000 pounds of scrap this week in their home to house canvass for scrap metal in Mt. Gilead. This brings the total in Mt. Gilead to approximately 1,400 tons. This includes the scrap that has been collected since March and the bulk of it was made up from the rails of the old Short Line railroad that used to run from Mt. Gilead to Edison.

With Mt. Gilead having a population of approximately 2,200 the amount of scrap metal gathered is equal to about 1,200 pounds per capita with more yet to be collected throughout the town.

ON DENNISON BOARD

GRANVILLE, O., Oct. 10—Ford R. Weber, Toledo investment company proprietor, was elected to the Denison university board of trustees at its annual fall meeting. He replaces the late Julius Lamson, Toledo merchant.

MOTORISTS LIMITED TO 5 TIRES PER CAR

By The Associated Press
DETROIT, Oct. 10—When gasoline rationing is made nationwide within the next few weeks, one of the jobs probably in store for the average motorist is that he will not be permitted to own more than five tires for each vehicle registered in his name.

According to word reaching automotive circles here, the applicant for a rationing card will have to swear that he does not own more than five tires for each of his cars or indicate a willingness to sell the extra casings to the government.

Representatives of the nation's rubber industry say this program, which will be extended to the eastern states already operating under the gasoline rationing plan, probably will result in the release of approximately 6,000,000 tires, many of them new. Under the scheme as it is anticipated here, there would be restored to the government to the tire rationing pool, as a further means of keeping some 20,000,000 or more passenger cars rolling.

Under one phase of the contemplated rationing program, a motorist's eligibility for tire replacements would be determined by his gasoline allowance.

With only an "A" card entitling him to sufficient fuel for approximately 240 miles of driving monthly he will have little chance to buy a tire of any kind. If he gets additional gasoline permitting 500 miles of driving monthly, he would be entitled to buy a replacement rubber casing or a recapped tire.

Allowed fuel for between 500 and 1,000 miles monthly, he would be eligible to purchase a grade B new casing.

A gasoline allowance good for more than 1,000 miles a month would make the motorist eligible to buy a first line pre-war tire, if available. If casings of that quality were not available, he would have first call on tires of lower grade.

By The Associated Press

JAP BASES HIT IN BIGGEST RAID

By The Associated Press
GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, AUSTRALIA, Oct. 10—General Douglas MacArthur's air force led out last night at the Japanese supply base at Rabaul, New Britain, spreading 60 tons of explosive and incendiary bombs among enemy supply dumps, barracks and jetties in the largest single air raid yet attempted in the southwest Pacific by allied heavy bombers.

The raid started late that were visible for 40 miles and underlined the statement of Navy Secretary Knox yesterday that the United States was on the offensive in the Pacific.

Australian ground force were pushing into "the gap" in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea in pursuit of retreating Japanese troops.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported "our forward elements have established contact with the enemy's patrols in the Moyai-Templeton's, crossing area." This area includes the 6,000 feet up in the mountains, from which the trail drops sharply toward the enemy's advance base at Kokoda, a spokesman said.

It was the first time in two weeks that allied forces had been reported in direct contact with the withdrawing Japanese. A spokesman said no large concentration of Japanese had been sighted, however.

Seeking to pin down ships, airplanes and supplies which the Japanese might send against the U. S. marines in the Solomons, bombers under the command of Maj. Gen. George C. Kenney also raided Buika at the extreme northern tip of the Solomons, starting many fires. All the planes returned safely.

JAP DESTROYER SUNK IN SOLOMONS

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—The navy announced today that a Japanese destroyer was sunk and a destroyer and cruiser damaged when dive bombers and torpedo planes attacked enemy warships backing up landing operations at Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands.

SMALL EMPLOYERS EXEMPT

County Scrap 1,500 Tons At End of Second Week

Possibility of Qualifying for Pennant Award Grows With Clean-up Collection of Third Week Ahead

Marion county's scrap drive today had produced a total of approximately 1,500 tons in two weeks of the three-week scrap campaign sponsored by the county's new scrap law.

This represents roughly 60 per cent of the tonnage that will be collected in the county.

This showing is well above the target figure of 75 per cent reported to day by The Associated Press.

Today's report brought Marion county's scrap drive a good chance of winning an honor pennant awarded by the WLB to every county with a per capita of 100 pounds.

Kanawha, leading the parade of states, has a per capita of 72 pounds, says the report. Marion county's four drive Marion county.

Ohio ranks sixth in the collection campaign, concluded by the newspapers throughout the state.

Robert O. Weidie, head of the Ohio scrap committee, said Ohioans had collected 100,000 tons in three weeks. He expects the total to be reached "gradually" now that school children throughout the state have joined the drive.

Marion county and county public and parochial school children have been in the drive for two weeks.

The goal is credited with rolling up more than 600 tons of scrap.

Marion's three junk dealers reported 60 tons received yesterday, bringing their total since the drive began to 172. With the American Ordnance Plant's 500 tons and the schools' more than 600 tons, the county total has reached the 1,500-ton mark.

That the county may win a pennant was indicated in a survey yesterday afternoon among the county schools, in which farmers are carrying out the scrap.

Most of the 17 schools reported work still to be done next week. In at least one school it was reported the drive would run well into next week.

In the city the work has been virtually cleaned up by the public and parochial boys and girls. Further cleanup work at Crystal Lake park, the first of the week will be the major public school job.

Meanwhile, scrap officials urge that people "get in the scrap" by next Saturday, the day the drive ends. Scrap turned in after that day cannot be counted in Marion county's per capita returns and on the last few tons may depend an honor award for the county.

U. S. DAY RAID BEST OF WAR

Low Losses Amaze British Who Know Hazards of Daylight Attacks.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 10—American flying to France and Liberation fighters home from the greatest allied daylight attack yet launched against Hitler's war foundry again have amazed British air experts, who know from grim experience the hazards of daylight operations.

The return of all but four of the 100 United States bombers which started over occupied France with an escort of 500 allied fighter planes yesterday and unloaded tons of bombs on factories and railroad yards apparently even any doubt concerning the effectiveness of all the fighters returned safely.

British air correspondents said the sight of the American fighters had exceeded the best daylight efforts of the Germans during the "Blitz" of September, 1918.

On the last day of the battle of Britain, Sept. 15, 1940, the Germans sent over 300 planes in two groups of 250 each and lost at least 185 of them.

None of more than 100 American planes in the attack.

"We gave 'em hell," said Maj. Kenneth Good, 26, of Cleveland, a squadron leader. "There must have been 50 or 60 German fighters meeting around. I am ready to go back any time in our liberation."

Maj. Addison Baker of Akron, a squadron leader, commented:

"I never saw so many fighters in my life. They were all over the sky when we reached the target."

Seven German fighters were reported shot down flying fortresses were.

William J. Carroll, Youngstown's Donald D. Herman, Canton; Alex Pauline and Charles J. Geyer, Cleveland; Ernest W. Berchler, Sidney; John E. Howe, Lancaster, and Leslie Cain, Columbus.

Liberators' Easter

The Liberators are later than the fortresses, but are not as formidable fighting craft as the fortresses, which have proved themselves kings of the air in daylight operations. ## HOPE TO PASS TAX BILL BEFORE NOV. 3

Administration Leaders Seek Final Action Before Election.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—Administration leaders today sought to pass a bill to end the new tax bill to President Roosevelt before the Nov. 3 election day.

The bill, which would carry the Senate into an unusual week-end session today in an effort to put the finishing touches on its version of the measure.

Democratic Leader Barkley of Kentucky said he hoped no more than two weeks would be consumed in adjusting differences with the house. This would put the biggest tax bill in history on the President's desk in the last week of October.

"We want to get this bill passed before the elections and we certainly are going to work hard with that aim in mind," Barkley said.

The Senate measure would add a disputed amount between $7,000,000,000 and $8,000,000,000 to the $17,000,000,000 now collected annually in direct taxes. In addition, about $1,750,000,000 would be taken yearly from taxpayers but rebated later.

The Senate had before it today the question of allowing liberal percentage allowances for depletion in petroleum and mining enterprises, a system now in effect but strongly opposed by the treasury.

The Senate took long strides yesterday toward approval of the bill, approving a 5 per cent victory tax on gross income above $224 a year and voting 50 to 34, to freeze social security taxes in 1943 at the present level of 1 per cent on employers and a like amount on employees.

Red Cross Issues Call for Knitters

An urgent call for knitters came today from the Marion County Red Cross office following receipt of a large shipment of service yarn for navy turtle-neck sweaters, navy scarfs and army sleeveless sweaters.

With winter coming on it is more important than ever that the work be started at once, those in charge said.

Time required to knit the three articles has been established. To complete a turtle-neck sweater requires about six weeks, a scarf, about three weeks, and a sleeveless sweater, about four weeks.

Women and girls are asked to get the yarn at the Red Cross office in the Y. M. C. A. building on South State street.

RUSSIANS STOP FIERCE DRIVES ON STALINGRAD

Tank and Infantry Forces Make New Attempt To Crack Red Defense.

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW, Oct. 10—Tank and infantry attacks on German positions believed to be the German high command's serious bid for a quick decision in the battle of Stalingrad were reported today and Red army troops entrenched in a position of warfare against the Nazi flank northwest of the city.

A front line correspondent of Tass said there was reason to believe Adolf Hitler's field officers expected finally to master the battered industrial center, but this expectation was not fulfilled.

A tank drive on and a motorized infantry division were among several fresh German units which led the latest offensive. From day-old action concentrated on a narrow, 100-meter front of Stalingrad and almost at cutting through the city's heart to the Volga.

Tass said as many as 40 assaults were launched in this phase of the battle the greater part falling and others gaining a few dozen yards.

German Panzer Divisions

The mid-day communiqué said Russian forces northwest of Stalingrad threw back five counterattacks, killed about 200 German infantrymen, destroyed five mortars and other material and blew up an ammunition dump.

Within the battered city, Red army men were declared to have "continued to defend the positions they had occupied and repulsed attacks by enemy infantry."

A German unit that assaulted from the west would be withdrawn from Stalingrad, leaving the field to armor guns and bombers, again was ignored by the Soviet high command. Artillery is among the best equipped of the Red army's weapons and the Russians probably would welcome a shelling duel there.

Withdrawal of Nazi infantry would be regarded here as a tacit admission that the German high command again had miscalculated the strength of Russian resistance, as it did at Leningrad, at Tula and upon the approaches of Moscow last year.

A possibility that Axis shock troops would be diverted against the Volga-Caucasian shipping lanes at Astrakhan, on the Volga's mouth, was implied yesterday in dispatch of the government newspaper Izvestia which reported for the first time the German drive across the Kalmyk steppes.

Reverse Acknowledged

(The Germans declared several weeks ago that an invasion force had driven to the Caspian south-west of Astrakhan after capturing Elstern, the Kalmyk capital, 160 miles south of Stalingrad and 120 miles west of Astrakhan. Later Berlin broadcasts have been silent upon developments in that region.)

A reverse was acknowledged on the northwestern front, an area definitely defined area between Tazew and Leningrad. The communiqué said Soviet troops lost two communities before an assault of German infantrymen and 30 tanks.

Ten Nazi ammunition trucks were destroyed and about 300 German soldiers in the Mordok area of the central Caucasus by Red army men in beating off several attacks by a tank-supported regiment, the communiqué declared.

German Infantry and Tank Groups, reinforced after a three-day battle in the western Caucasus east of Novorossiysk, penetrated to the outskirts of a Russian-held settlement, but "our troops are fighting stubbornly, wiping out the Hitlerites who have broken through," it was announced.

A reverse was acknowledged on the northwestern front, an area definitely defined area between Tazew and Leningrad. The communiqué said Soviet troops lost two communities before an assault of German infantrymen and 30 tanks.

Ten Nazi ammunition trucks were destroyed and about 300 German soldiers in the Mordok area of the central Caucasus by Red army men in beating off several attacks by a tank-supported regiment, the communiqué declared.

German Infantry and Tank Groups, reinforced after a three-day battle in the western Caucasus east of Novorossiysk, penetrated to the outskirts of a Russian-held settlement, but "our troops are fighting stubbornly, wiping out the Hitlerites who have broken through," it was announced.

"I Believe"

A SERMONETTE By REV. M. E. HOLLESEN Pastor of Emanuel Lutheran Church

most of the world's sin; that this Christ accomplished this task by offering up his life on Calvary; that the fact that Christ has taken the guilt of all men upon Himself and has borne the eternal punishment for the sins of all men means that Christ has redeemed us from sin, eternal death and the devil; that because we trust in Jesus kept the law for him, and bore his punishment on the cross, he has forgiven his sins and given the perfect righteousness of Christ, when admits him into the kingdom and assures him of eternal life and everlasting salvation in heaven; that no works on his part are necessary whatever with which to buy heaven; that the price of heaven is full paid; that salvation is a free gift of grace from God through faith, not of works, but what man should trust. That is what "I believe" means to the Christian with regard to Christ, his King and Savior. And this is the very crowning glory of his believing, because this trust is saving faith. Hence, the Christian certainly believes more than the fact that a God lives.

Believing includes even more than the conviction that God is a true God, and that God's Son is the all-sufficient Savior.

"I believe" for the Christian means, also, that he believes:

III. GOD THE HOLY SPIRIT SANCTIFIES.

Much is being written about the Holy Spirit, the third Person of the Trinity. And much of what is being written is most confusing. Yet the Scriptures are clear when they tell us that it is the work of the Holy Spirit to take the free redemption that Christ has made possible and to bring it to individuals. The Holy Spirit calls men, gathers and enlightens them, kindles a saving faith in their hearts, and then keeps them in this grace unto their end. This is the work of sanctification, the work of the Spirit by which he sets men apart for God and salvation through faith in Christ, and endeavors to keep men in this saving relationship with God.

How does He work? This Holy Spirit operates through the Word of God, the Gospel and the Sacraments, namely, Baptism and the Lord's Supper. He calls only those who come in contact with His Word, for the Word is the channel through which He carries on His work. St. Paul says, "How shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard?" (Rom. 10:14). So, the child of God does not flatter himself because he believes in Christ; he in all humility gives all credit to the Holy Spirit for his salvation, since he knows that "No man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost" (1 Cor. 12:3). Faith, therefore, to the Christian means that he believes that the entire work of bringing souls to Christ is the work of the Holy Spirit. And the believer is comforted in the fact that he trusts Christ, for thereby he knows that the Holy Spirit has by the law led him to sorrow for his sin, and by the Gospel brought him to a saving faith in Christ and His perfect righteousness.

It is no wonder, then, that the Christian is comforted when he says, "I believe." If all men could say, "I believe," and mean what the child of God does, then men would not need to fear, but could rather rejoice and take courage, even when the days are darkened by the shadow of grim war. If the comfort of faith is ours, let us tell others; if it is not, let us go to some Christian church where Christ is preached, and ask the minister. Let us not rest until we have the full assurance that goes with the confession, "I believe."

Here is the very heart of the faith of the believer. He believes, that is, he holds the conviction: That the Father sent His Son, who assumed human nature, and became a man; that this Person was Jesus Christ, true God and true man; that God's Son came to take away the guilt and the punishment of the world's sin.

But believing includes more than the conviction that a true God, the true God exists. "I believe" for the Christian means, also, that he believes:

II. GOD'S SON IS THE ALL-SUFFICIENT SAVIOR.

There is the very heart of the faith of the believer. He believes, that is, he holds the conviction: That the Father sent His Son, who assumed human nature, and became a man; that this Person was Jesus Christ, true God and true man; that God's Son came to take away the guilt and the punishment of the world's sin.

U. S. British To Give Up Rights in China

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Embattled China today had British and American assurance that her postwar sovereignty will be free of the fetters of extraterritoriality.

In simultaneous London and Washington announcements, timed to coincide with the 31st anniversary of the revolution by which China became a republic, the two governments made known last night their intention to join with China in abolishing the system of extraterritorial rights and special privileges for foreigners which Chinese long have felt impinged upon their freedom.

Speaking for the United States, acting Secretary of State Welles told Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-Ming a draft treaty soon would be submitted to his government providing for the "immediate relinquishment" of such rights by this country.

Ambassador Wei promptly issued a statement hailing the move as the beginning of a "new era in China's relations with the western powers."

Papers Do Great Job On Scrap Drive, Poll Shows

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—If the present national scrap metal drive doesn't go hurtling over the top, it won't be because the nation's newspapers have failed to tell the people about it.

From Maine to Florida, from New York to San Francisco, the newspapers have taken the story of the scrap metal drive into the American home with such effectiveness that ninety-four out of every one hundred persons will tell you they have read about it.

This would indicate that practically the entire literate population had read about the scrap drive.

As part of their contribution to the scrap campaign, the newspaper members of the American Institute of Public Opinion asked that the Gallup poll put the following question to a cross-section of the population in every state in the nation:

"Have you read about the present drive to collect scrap metal?"

The purpose of the survey was to provide newspapers with some indication of the job still to be done. The results of the study completed early this week are eloquent testimony to the effectiveness of the free American press in its sponsorship of the scrap campaign. Here are the results of the survey:

Yes (have read) . . . 94 per cent.
No (have not read) 6 per cent.

While the survey by the institute discloses a splendid performance by the newspapers of the country, it also reveals that there is still a big job facing the local committees handling scrap collections. Forty-one persons out of every one hundred questioned have scrap that has neither been taken to scrap depots nor collected.

That so many people still have scrap in their homes may of course be less serious than it first appears to be. In many communities the scrap metal drives are not yet completed, and tractors have not yet got around to all of the homes.

Results of the study also indicate, however, that more careful canvassing by local scrap committees will uncover many more tons of scrap.

Comments on Questions.

WPA estimates that there are on the average about 80 pounds of scrap per ton in the United States, about 20 pounds per home in the large cities, an average of about 100 pounds per home in the small towns.

The total amount of scrap metal in the United States is estimated to be about 100 million tons.

Willkie Enroute Home from Trip to China

By The Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Oct. 10.—Wendell L. Willkie was homebound today from a fact-finding mission in 13 countries during which he urged speedy establishment of a second European front and increased allied aid to China.

He took off from Chungking, capital of Szechwan province in central China, at dawn yesterday. The announcement was withheld until today for his safety, to conceal his movements from the Japanese.

Again using WPA's estimates, the 22 per cent who have scrap and who either can not take it to the depot or do not know where to take it represent 900,000 tons of scrap, about which nothing may be done, unless the local committees make more complete arrangements for pickup service.

Since practically everyone in the country knows about the scrap metal drive, the task of the newspapers is amazing successful so far. The principal job now lies in seeing that every available pound of scrap gets to the scrap depots.

Long Distance Calls Go on Priority Basis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Priorities—with three railings—invade the field of the long distance telephone call Nov. 1 with the number one spot going to communications affecting the war effort and public security.

The board of war communications, informed telephone companies yesterday that after this month calls in the first classification have the "right-of-way" over all others even if necessary to interrupt conversations in progress.

The board assigned number one priority to arrangements for moving armed forces during combat, urgent orders to armed forces, dangers due to the enemy's presence, and to calls relating to flood, earthquake, hurricane or other disaster affecting the war effort or public security.

Hidden Reasons Behind Nazis New Move in Russia

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Wide World War Analyst.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Hitler's announcement that he has achieved his main objective at Stalingrad and therefore will depend on bombardment rather than infantry to complete the operation of reducing the city would seem to me to be a much more important move than appears on the surface.

There is a sound reason in my view to believe he is preparing to weaken his position there by a heavy withdrawal of manpower for other and even more pressing purposes.

His peculiar statement, broadcast by a spokesman, obviously was calculated to prepare the German public for a shock-down of the attack on Stalingrad and perhaps disappointment at the failure to capture this amazing colossus. Probably it also was intended to soften the disclosure of the extent of the huge German losses.

However, it is doubtful Hitler would thus tacitly admit the hiding he has been taking were it not for the necessity of making a quick shift in his plans. The only logical move of great magnitude would appear to involve his air force, the major part of which he has been employing in the bloodiest and biggest siege of history.

My reasons for believing this represents his purpose are:

One—The devastating Anglo-American bombing raids against Nazi war industries and transport systems in western Europe are hitting the Nazis in a vital spot and hurting their morale.

We have a fine illustration of this in yesterday's raid against the French industrial city of Lille by 100 of our great bombers, supported by a fleet of 500 fighter planes.

The time has arrived when Hitler must try to halt these assaults and that would necessitate the withdrawal of warplanes from the Russian front.

Two—The Nazi air-high command has been displaying jangling nerves over the fear of an allied attack somewhere in western Europe.

He has been hastily strengthening his ground forces here, there and everywhere and he undoubtedly feels the necessity of repairing his own comparatively weak air defenses.

Three—Because Hitler has been so engaged on the Russian front that he has had to quit large-scale bombing of Britain, John Bull naturally has been free to get ahead with the business of piling up resources.

Four—in order to throw every ounce of weight he could into the assault on Stalingrad, the fiercest armed struggle of air power. This not only deprived the Nazis of strength to continue the offensive against Egypt but also placed them in a most uncomfortable defensive position.

There is an ever-growing danger of allied attack against the axis army in Libya and Nazi warplanes must be sent there.

Five—Indications are that the Nazi chief hopes to be able to drive eastward along the foothills of the Caucasus mountains in an effort to cut the Russian transport line from the Persian gulf. This would call for more air power since the Reds have been holding well in that area.

Six—Apart from all these considerations, there is one which hardly is of even more pressing importance. Hitler must at once begin to prepare for the great war of the air which next spring over western Europe. That battle is likely to determine the course of the war and length of time it will last.

Hitler's air losses in Russia have been terrific. In addition, he has had his first line warplanes in such constant action that his entire fleet is badly in need of rest and overhauling.

It will take him from now until spring to repair the damage and replace the losses. Indeed it is quite likely the intervening six months won't give him the time he needs especially since he may be called upon to conduct large-scale operations, both defensive and offensive, during the next few months.

CUT IN HOG CEILING TO RELIEVE SHORTAGE

OPA To Lower Price Limit on Pork Soon.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—More pork for the dinner table was in prospect today as the office of price administration drafted an order which would drop the ceiling on hog prices somewhere between $1 and $2 per hundred pounds.

A food official who asked not to be quoted by name said OPA had informed the agriculture department it was about ready to lower the ceiling.

The effect of such an order, the spokesman said, would be to release for market quantities of hogs which farmers were holding back to fatten and offer at higher weights.

The ceiling would be placed somewhere between $13.50 and $14.75.

He said this week for as much as $13.75 at Chicago, the highest in 22 years.

Wage, Hour Questions Unsettled by Miners

By The Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—Most of 2,800 United Mine Workers convention delegates took today off from union business, but some considering membership requests for wage increase negotiations, were busy.

When the convention recessed yesterday to Monday, major items of unfinished business were applications of a majority of locals for 42-day increases of present $7-a-day pay and action on Interior Secretary Harold Ickes' recommendation to lengthen the five-day, 35-hour week.

In two resolutions yesterday UMW delegates indirectly rebuffed Philip Murray, their vice president for 22 years, until his ousting last May after the United Steelworkers of America had elected him president.

Blue Barron, At Palace Sunday, is Native of Lorain

BLUE BARRON

Blue Barron, who will direct his nationally famous dance band Sunday at the Palace theater, including a broadcast from 2:30 to 3 p. m. over the blue network of NBC, is a native of Lorain, O. He attended school in Cleveland and studied at Ohio university at Athens.

During his first two years at Ohio university his interest in music and entertainment was first expressed by membership on every prom committee, then chairman-ship of the committees. The first thing he knew he had a thriving orchestra and entertainment booking business going as a sideline.

After two years at the university and against the wishes of his family, who wanted him to be a doctor, he decided to devote his full time to his extra-curricular business. It was bringing in more money annually than he would probably make in his first five years as a doctor.

The Floating Palace, a showboat in Troy, N. Y., wanted an orchestra but Blue didn't have a band to fill the engagement. He had studied violin and had an education in music. He organized a band with himself at the baton and filled the engagement, planning on returning to the booking business. But his band was a hit and from that time has grown steadily to nationwide popularity.

Ohio Books "King's Row"

One of Three Pictures on Bill for Week; Newspaper Comedy Now Showing.

Three pictures will be shown next week at the Ohio theater including a return engagement of "King's Row."

"You Can't Escape Forever," now playing through Monday, is a newspaper comedy. Starred in the film are George Brent and Brenda Marshall. The picture tells the story of a newspaper managing editor who is forced to conduct a love-column as punishment for having bungled a story. Through his job as love-column editor he hits upon a clue that enables him to trap a gang of racketeers. The crooks were using a lonely hearts club as a front for their unlawful activities. Brent uses Brenda as a sort of cupid decoy and in that way exposes the gang, exonerates himself and regains his position as managing editor. And the love-column angle acted as an inspiration, for Brent asks Brenda to marry him.

Tuesday through Thursday the Ohio theater will again present Ann Sheridan and Ronald Reagan in "King's Row," taken from Somerset Maugham's novel.

"Tales of Manhattan" will open Friday for a week's run. It is a drama concerning the shifting fortunes of a full dress coat through the years and the stories of the lives it touches. Included in the cast are Charles Boyer, Rita Hayworth, Ginger Rogers, Henry Fonda, Edward G. Robinson, Charles Laughton, Paul Robeson, Ethel Waters, "Rochester," Roland Young, Cesar Romero, Thomas Mitchell and George Sanders. The film spans the entire social scale—from top to bottom.

"The Mad Mad Mad Mad Mad," starring Jane Wilton, will appear Tuesday and Wednesday. In trying to get the family out of a financially embarrassing situation Jane gets them into more trouble, but Grandma, with the help of Jane, does some clever maneuvering and clears up the situation.

Completing the double bill is "This Was Paris," with Ann Dvorak, Ben Lyon and Griffith Jones. The film tells of a British intelligence officer, an American newspaperman and an American girl in Paris before its fall.

Thursday through Saturday the Marion will present Johnny Mack Brown in "Boss of Hangtown Mesa." It pictures the adventures of the telegraph system pioneers in the frontier. Showing with this western film is "Chasing Trouble," with Frankie Darro.

Public Favors Giving Park Ornaments to Scrap Drive

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—Metal statuettes, railings, heavy chains, old guns, iron posts and other ornaments in the nation's parks and graveyards would be dismantled and carried off for scrap if the typical American citizen were running the scrap metal campaign.

A coast-to-coast survey by the Institute shows that most people place the war needs above their sentimental attachment to historical relics and mementos. As one man, referring to guns and other ornaments in parks, puts it: "Let's forget the Civil War and remember Pearl Harbor."

In some localities collection of metal from parks has already begun as well as from cemeteries, in the latter case permission, of course, being obtained from the families owning the burial plots.

The reaction of the public was measured by the Institute on the following basis:

"Do you think metal statuettes, old guns, railings, heavy chains and other metal in parks and cemeteries in your community should be donated to the scrap metal drive?"

The vote is:

Approve ..... 82%
Disapprove ..... 16%
Undecided ..... 2%

The small number who objected did so not primarily for reasons of sentiment, but because they do not think such a campaign is necessary, until all other sources of scrap are exhausted.

Scrap Need Stressed.
The majority, however, look upon park and cemetery ornaments as needless in time of emergency, however desirable they may be in times of peace.

Following are some typical comments for and against the issue from the entire country.

"The stuff is pretty all right, but right now we need it to make bullets and airplanes."

"Some of these dead heroes would be glad to have their statues used to help win the toughest war yet."

"We must have no scrap shortage holding up production."

"It's all-out for war. We can't let our sentiment run away with our heads."

"All except historical statues. We mustn't destroy cultural relics that can't be replaced."

"Sound like an extreme step. Don't think it's necessary right now."

"All that metal will do more good in a battleship than where it is now."

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

BUT at the end of the five minutes Miss Whitlock told Carolyn she must rest for her swoon, I wondered if the girl really knew when she was "up against a stone wall."

For while she scrupulously refrained from any evidence to her first words so attended me that I wondered if I had heard her correctly.

"I told you there was something I must do right away," she said tensely. "I must talk to that man—for five minutes, alone."

"No, no!" I exclaimed, but to my surprise my father rose abruptly, and went to Carolyn.

"Say that again, Carolyn," he said kindly. "What is it you must do?"

For an answer she turned her head and asked: "Dick?"

"Are you sure the man in there is the younger of the two men we saw that day on the way home from Weirhampton?"

Carolyn's demand

"He is the collegiate gangster in person," Dick said. "I can give you my oath on that."

"Then," to my father, "I must talk to him alone for five minutes—all alone. You don't know what it means."

"Can't you tell me why, Carolyn, and let us help you?" my father asked gently.

"No, no, no!" she said caucously. "Perhaps, after I talk to him, I can tell you something, but I must talk to him alone."

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Minor Injuries

SOMEONE has been asked or inspired to compose a new First Aid Manual and has written in to inquire what disinfectants they are to recommend and why. My feeling is to answer both, "Don't." Don't write another manual on First Aid, and don't put anything on disinfectants in the one you don't write.

I'll admit I'm a little cynical about civilian first aiders, having seen several of them in action. In the article I wrote on the subject a week or two ago it will be remembered I dwell on some other "don't." When a person falls down unconscious on the sidewalk, don't try to move him or rub him, and don't try to be too efficient. Just make him comfortable and let him rest. The doctor is on the way anyhow.

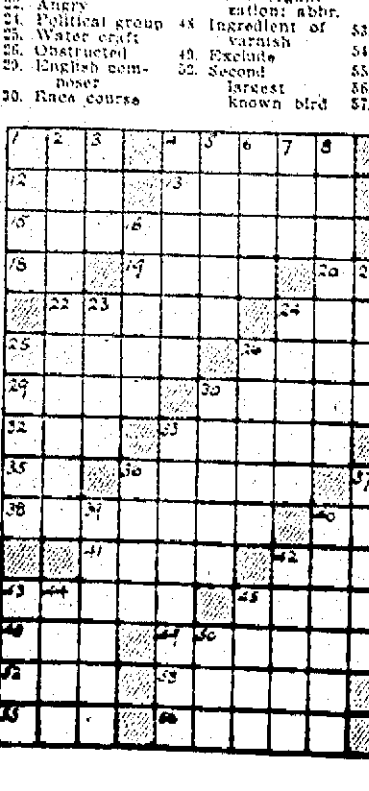

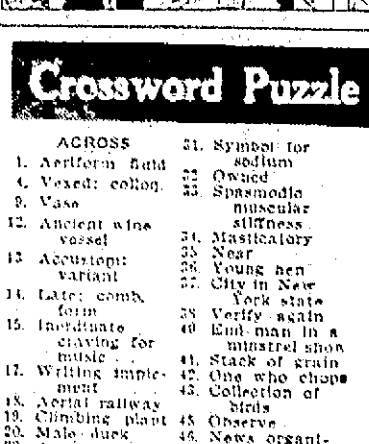

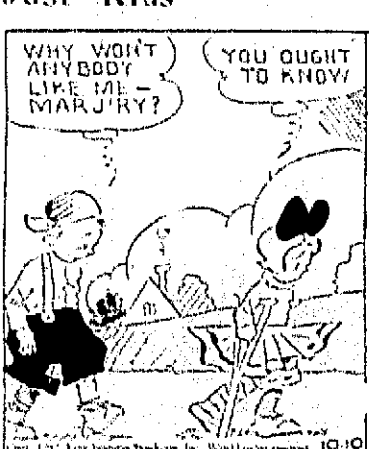

We are considering now, of course, a minor injury—an open wound not serious enough to call the doctor. Every step but one in the dressing of such a wound, simple as it appears, is subject to some discussion. One undeniably good procedure is to put on a piece of sterile gauze and strap it down with adhesive plaster.

The only safe and dependable means of removing foreign particles from a wound is by picking them out with a sterile forceps. Disinfectants are measured by a standard known as the phenol coefficient, and are classified as bacteriostatic (which means they prevent the growth of germs), and bacteriocidal (which means they kill the germs). The mercury disinfectants are very good bacteriostatic agents, but not very good bacteriocidal. That would be all right and make them useful for skin wounds except that the skin, sweat, wound and blood secretions contain sulfides and other reducing agents which have more or less neutralizing effect on mercurials.

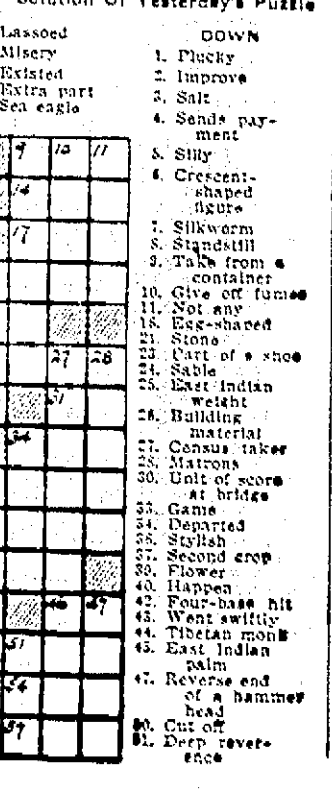

Tincture of iodine is a good bacteriocidal agent and a good skin disinfectant, but somewhat destructive, although this is not important in a small abrasion. Except for tincture of iodine there is no use using alcohol solutions of disinfectants. They sting and the aqueous solutions are just as effective. A crust forms quickly which seals the open spot off, and healing takes place under the crust.

The conclusion drawn by a large hospital staff after considerable study should be fairly easy to remember: "Fresh lacerations of a minor nature which do not require treatment by a physician usually do well if they are merely covered with a sterile unmedicated gauze pad, held in place with adhesive with gentle pressure."
